P.1. Comments.

Minutes: Christie Shenefield said she is here for the Ag facility and to advocate for a vision that serves the entire agriculture community. She said that her children barrel raise animals, show cattle, and raise multiple species of livestock. She said she leads the youth leaders in production agriculture club at a local school and the Polk County Junior Cattleman's Association. She said she directs a local cattle show in Kissimmee at the Osceola Heritage Park and she invited them all to come on April 17th and 18th. She asked for a multi-use facility that accommodates all species of farm animals. She said Polk has a rich and diverse agriculture heritage. She discussed the youth programs and said they invest lots of time and public funds into the agriculture community. She asked for a focus group prior to finalizing the plans for the facility and said to include people who use this type of facility.

Eve Salimbene said she is about transparency. She said she visited Animal Control on February 6th. She said they have made some improvements. She said they added some barriers to keep the cats from running away. She said the cleaning was still going on at 10:15 a.m. and said that is a no-no and they want the building to be ready prior to opening. She said they did have beds with blankets and she said that the smell was bad. She discussed a dog that was rescued with respiratory issues and she said it was there for two weeks without medical care.

Charlene Leis discussed the link between animal abuse and domestic violence. She said research shows that in homes where domestic violence is present that the animal abuse rate is at 88%. She said animal cruelty is often the first red flag. She said when someone harms an animal they are exerting power over something defenseless and they are sending messages to children and partners that this is what they are capable of. She said when animal abuse cases are not thoroughly investigated we are failing to interrupt a documented pipeline to child abuse, partner violence and other violent crimes. She asked for stronger coordination between Animal Control and the Sheriff's office.

Debbie Hicks said we need a new facility. She said to look at facilities in other counties and then see what we have. She said the back gate does not lock. She said don't we want a facility where the people are passionate about what they do. She said she wants an advisory committee.

Becky Bywater said her purpose is to remind them why government maintains the Animal Control facility. She said they are asking for the spay and neuter program again. She said low-income people are barely surviving. She said a spay and neuter voucher program will make a difference.

Kateland Raney said she is the Vice President of Central Florida Youth and Agriculture, is on the Farm Bureau Board, and the UFI Small Farms Advisory Committee. She said she is hopeful to utilize the facility. She said agriculture is a foundation to Polk County and this facility matters. She said the concept leads towards equestrian use and Polk County is much broader than that. She said it should be a multi-use facility. She asked for an advisory group to provide expertise and input. She welcomed the opportunity to serve on that committee.

Communications Director Amber Smith confirmed that today's comments will be taken into consideration with the other comments at the meeting.

Commissioner Wilson said they are having a meeting in the morning to review all the comment cards, suggestions, and emails.

Chair Santiago said Commissioner Scott mentioned something important which is time and funds. She said it has been a good 10-12 years that this has been in the talks. She said that it is in the planning stages and it is important that we take into consideration all the comments so we can decide how to move forward.

County Manager Bill Beasley said the next step in the process is that staff and the consultant will review each comment, look at the merits of those comments and incorporate the comments. He said they will look at the budget impacts and whether there are subsequent phases. He said they may reach out to them and talk about the extent of their comment. He said there are some good comments that have a lot of merit. He said they will go through a deliberate, conscientious, and thought provoking process to incorporate those comments.

Commissioner Troutman said going back to transparency and what the public is wanting here there seems to be still a lot of ambiguity as she sat and listened to them. She said people appreciate the fact that they are openly saying we are going to take these into consideration, we will be in touch, but that still just leaves a lot of unknowns. She said to tie that process down a little more.

Mr. Beasley said after they have reviewed all the comments there would be an agenda review or work session to bring the Board up to speed. He said that is when the Board will decide how do we reach out to the public.

Chair Santiago said that is what we discussed on Friday. She said we will generate all the information that we can and see where we stand. She said that will determine how they move forward and that will determine whether a focus group is needed. She said the Board needs to be updated because constituents call all of them.

Commissioner Scott said we do invest our time and research and are actively doing things behind the scenes in between these meetings. He said our obligation is to represent the community. He said they increased the salary for an additional veterinarian for Animal Control. He said actions are being taken and he appreciates the patience and their voices are heard.

James Abercrombie said they have changed the three minute rule and said it is ridiculous. He commended Mr. Beasley, Commissioner Troutman and Commissioner Scott for setting up the meeting for the park. He said he wants to know where the fence went and where that money went.

Jhoanna Allende said tonight is a full moon. She said animal cruelty is not isolated it is connected to domestic violence. She said protecting pets is not separate from protecting families. She said we need stronger regulations of pet sales, tethering ordinances, protection for community cats, and proactive polices.

Meeting adjourned at 10:05 a.m.
